New Tiguan Allspace to be presented in Detroit

- Volkswagen expands the range of Tiguan variants to include a new longer version

Wolfsburg, 16 December 2016 – Volkswagen will launch a new and exciting additional Tiguan model on the market next year: the new Tiguan Allspace. The long version of the best-seller will celebrate its world premiere at the beginning of January at the North American International Auto Show (NAIAS, 8 – 22 January 2017). Beginning in the early part of summer, the Tiguan – with up to seven seats – will be launched successively in North America, China and Europe.

The European version of the long Tiguan will be given the added designation "Allspace", while the models for North America and China will simply be called "Tiguan". As the name suggests, the new long version of the Tiguan boasts more room in the interior and a longer wheelbase (+ 11 cm). Both aspects ensure greater flexibility in the interior. In addition, the Tiguan Allspace comes with an attractive range of equipment features.
